Odom travels to Washington for hurricane relief

Commissioner of Agriculture and Forestry Bob Odom traveled to Washington, D.C., in December to speak to federal officials and Congressional members about the effects of hurricanes Katrina and Rita on Louisiana's agricultural and forestry industries.

"As time passes and we get further and further away from the events, people tend to forget the impact these hurricanes made," Odom explained. "It's my duty to keep reminding them of the damage to agriculture and forestry and to seek relief for our producers."

Louisiana agriculture and forestry, valued at more than $20 billion, took at least a $2 billion hit from the hurricanes.

Odom met with USDA Secretary

Mike Johanns, Rep. Rodney Alexander of Quitman, a member of the House Appropriations Committee, and Rep. Bobby Jindal of Metairie to discuss federal support for Louisiana farmers and ranchers and the rural communities in which they live. He has also spoken to other members of the state's Congressional delegation, including Rep. Charlie Melancon of Napoleonville, Bill Jefferson of New Orleans and Charles Boustany of Lafayette.

"Whether or not they were directly touched by the winds and rain, every agricultural producer and landowner in this state felt the effects of the hurricanes," Odom said. "Valuable timber is down and needs to be sold, cattlemen are selling cows because they have no hay to feed them, yield and production is down, workers are hard to find because they've either relocated or they've found work in the rebuilding efforts – the list goes on and on.

"These are the people that can make things happen and bring some stability back to the industry. I went to Washington to remind them how important agriculture and forestry are to Louisiana's economy and to offer my complete cooperation and the department's resources in revitalizing the state's agricultural and forestry industries."

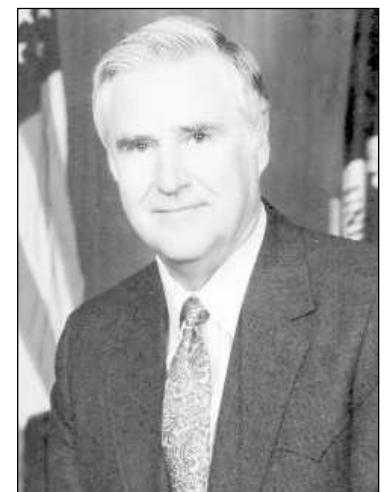

While in Washington, Odom also met with officials from the U.S. Department of Energy to discuss green fuels.

"I truly believe diversification is the key to being a successful agricultural producer in this new age of technology. Farmers need to think of their crops as sources of energy. It benefits the grower because it opens a new market for their product and it also lessens our dependence on foreign oil," Odom said.

The Commissioner plans to continue going to Washington until a fair relief package for producers is unveiled.

"I'm committed to doing whatever it takes to get help for our producers. What everyone has to realize is this doesn't just affect farmers and the rural communities; losses in agriculture and forestry go all the way to the city. When people grasp that truth, we'll get the help we need," Odom said.
